Salary and Tax

TAKE-HOME PAY COMPARISON

Tax year 2026
Amounts per year

A — $225,000 a year in Alberta
B — $225,000 a year in British Columbia

A takes home $2,529 more per year

$211 per month · same gross — the difference is all deductions

LINE ITEM	A · ALBERTA	B · B.C.	B − A
INCOME
Gross income	$225,000	$225,000	±0
Taxable income after the CPP enhanced deduction	$223,873	$223,873	±0
PAYROLL PROGRAMS
CPP + CPP2	$4,646	$4,646	±0
EI premium	$1,123	$1,123	±0
INCOME TAX
Federal tax after credits	$46,200	$46,200	±0
Provincial tax after credits	$20,750	$23,280	+$2,529
BOTTOM LINE
Total deductions	$72,720	$75,249	+$2,529
Take-home	$152,280	$149,751	−$2,529
Effective deduction rate share of gross lost to tax, CPP and EI	32.3%	33.4%	+1.1 pts
True marginal rate on the next $100	42.3%	46.1%	+3.8 pts

Amounts per year; rates are annual. Green favours B, red favours A. Full statements for A and B follow, their bracket figures drawn on one scale.

Employment income only, single filer resident in the stated province on Dec 31. Basic credits only (no RRSP, dependant or tuition). Validated against TaxTips.ca and Wealthsimple, October 2026. An estimate, not tax advice.
Sources: CRA tax rates · CRA payroll deductions tables · Adjust these numbers: salaryandtax.ca/compare?a=225000-ab&b=225000-bc

Salary and Tax

TAKE-HOME PAY STATEMENT

SCENARIO A

Tax year 2026
Amounts per year

Prepared for an employee earning $225,000 a year in Alberta.

INCOME

Gross pay — $225,000
Your salary before any deductions — $225,000 a year, the number on your offer letter.

PAYROLL PROGRAMS — taken before income tax

CPP — Canada Pension Plan — - $4,230
5.95% of earnings between $3,500 and $74,600. Its enhanced slice is deductible, which lowers your taxable income below.

CPP2 — second-tier pension — - $416
4% of earnings between $74,600 and $85,000. Fully deductible.

EI — Employment Insurance — - $1,123
1.63% of earnings up to $68,900. Funds job-loss, parental and sickness benefits.

INCOME TAX

Taxable income — $223,873
Gross minus the deductible part of CPP. Income tax is worked out on this, not on your gross.

Federal income tax — - $46,200
Charged in layers from 14% up to the 29% band your income reaches, less credits for the basic personal amount, CPP, EI and the Canada employment amount.

Alberta income tax — - $20,750
Alberta brackets from 8%, less credits for the basic personal amount, CPP and EI.

TOTAL

Total deductions — - $72,720
Everything taken off the top: income tax, CPP and EI.

NET TAKE-HOME PAY

$152,280

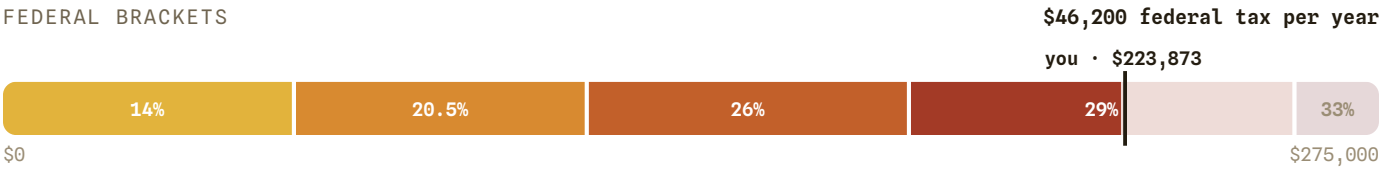

per year · 67.7% of your gross stays with you

KEEPS 68%

FIGURE 1

How your income tax was built

FEDERAL BRACKETS

ALBERTA BRACKETS

Each band taxes only the income that falls inside it. The marker is where your taxable income reaches — everything to its left was taxed at the lower bands first, which is why your effective rate is well below your top bracket. Bars show tax before credits.

SCHEDULE A

What lands each payday

PAY FREQUENCY	GROSS	DEDUCTIONS	TAKE-HOME
Weekly	$4,326.92	$1,398.46	$2,928.46
Bi-weekly	$8,653.85	$2,796.93	$5,856.92
Semi-monthly	$9,375.00	$3,030.00	$6,345.00
Monthly	$18,750.00	$6,060.01	$12,689.99
Yearly	$225,000.00	$72,720.07	$152,279.93

EFFECTIVE TAX RATE

29.8%

The share of your whole income that goes to income tax — your true average.

TRUE MARGINAL RATE

42.3%

What your next $100 loses to tax, CPP and EI. On your next $1,000 raise you'd keep about $577 — a raise never lowers your take-home.

Employment income only, single filer resident in Alberta on Dec 31, 2026. Basic credits only (no RRSP, dependant or tuition). Validated against TaxTips.ca and Wealthsimple, October 2026. An estimate, not tax advice.
Sources: CRA tax rates · CRA payroll deductions tables · Adjust these numbers: salaryandtax.ca/?income=225000&province=ab

Salary and Tax

TAKE-HOME PAY STATEMENT

SCENARIO B

Tax year 2026
Amounts per year

Prepared for an employee earning $225,000 a year in British Columbia.

INCOME

Gross pay — $225,000
Your salary before any deductions — $225,000 a year, the number on your offer letter.

PAYROLL PROGRAMS — taken before income tax

CPP — Canada Pension Plan — - $4,230
5.95% of earnings between $3,500 and $74,600. Its enhanced slice is deductible, which lowers your taxable income below.

CPP2 — second-tier pension — - $416
4% of earnings between $74,600 and $85,000. Fully deductible.

EI — Employment Insurance — - $1,123
1.63% of earnings up to $68,900. Funds job-loss, parental and sickness benefits.

INCOME TAX

Taxable income — $223,873
Gross minus the deductible part of CPP. Income tax is worked out on this, not on your gross.

Federal income tax — - $46,200
Charged in layers from 14% up to the 29% band your income reaches, less credits for the basic personal amount, CPP, EI and the Canada employment amount.

British Columbia income tax — - $23,280
British Columbia brackets from 5.6%, less credits for the basic personal amount, CPP and EI.

TOTAL

Total deductions — - $75,249
Everything taken off the top: income tax, CPP and EI.

NET TAKE-HOME PAY

$149,751

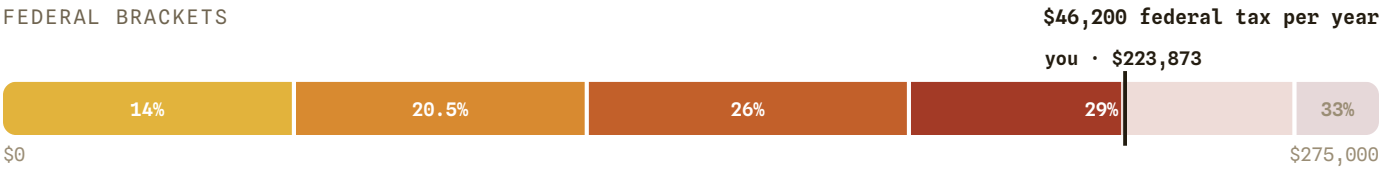

per year · 66.6% of your gross stays with you

KEEPS 67%

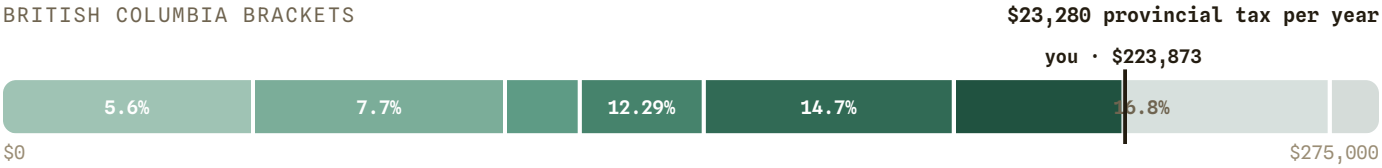

FIGURE 1

How your income tax was built

FEDERAL BRACKETS

BRITISH COLUMBIA BRACKETS

Each band taxes only the income that falls inside it. The marker is where your taxable income reaches — everything to its left was taxed at the lower bands first, which is why your effective rate is well below your top bracket. Bars show tax before credits.

SCHEDULE A

What lands each payday

PAY FREQUENCY	GROSS	DEDUCTIONS	TAKE-HOME
Weekly	$4,326.92	$1,447.10	$2,879.82
Bi-weekly	$8,653.85	$2,894.21	$5,759.64
Semi-monthly	$9,375.00	$3,135.39	$6,239.61
Monthly	$18,750.00	$6,270.78	$12,479.22
Yearly	$225,000.00	$75,249.41	$149,750.59

EFFECTIVE TAX RATE

30.9%

The share of your whole income that goes to income tax — your true average.

TRUE MARGINAL RATE

46.1%

What your next $100 loses to tax, CPP and EI. On your next $1,000 raise you'd keep about $539 — a raise never lowers your take-home.

Employment income only, single filer resident in British Columbia on Dec 31, 2026. Basic credits only (no RRSP, dependant or tuition). Validated against TaxTips.ca and Wealthsimple, October 2026. An estimate, not tax advice.
Sources: CRA tax rates · CRA payroll deductions tables · Adjust these numbers: salaryandtax.ca/?income=225000&province=bc