Salary and Tax

TAKE-HOME PAY STATEMENT

Tax year 2026
Amounts per year

Prepared for an employee earning $225,000 a year in British Columbia.

INCOME

Gross pay Your salary before any deductions — $225,000 a year, the number on your offer letter.	$225,000

PAYROLL PROGRAMS — taken before income tax

CPP — Canada Pension Plan 5.95% of earnings between $3,500 and $74,600. Its enhanced slice is deductible, which lowers your taxable income below.	− $4,230
CPP2 — second-tier pension 4% of earnings between $74,600 and $85,000. Fully deductible.	− $416
EI — Employment Insurance 1.63% of earnings up to $68,900. Funds job-loss, parental and sickness benefits.	− $1,123

INCOME TAX

Taxable income Gross minus the deductible part of CPP. Income tax is worked out on this, not on your gross.	$223,873
Federal income tax Charged in layers from 14% up to the 29% band your income reaches, less credits for the basic personal amount, CPP, EI and the Canada employment amount.	− $46,200
British Columbia income tax British Columbia brackets from 5.6%, less credits for the basic personal amount, CPP and EI.	− $23,280

TOTAL

Total deductions Everything taken off the top: income tax, CPP and EI.	− $75,249

NET TAKE-HOME PAY

$149,751

per year · 66.6% of your gross stays with you

KEEPS 67%

FIGURE 1

How your income tax was built

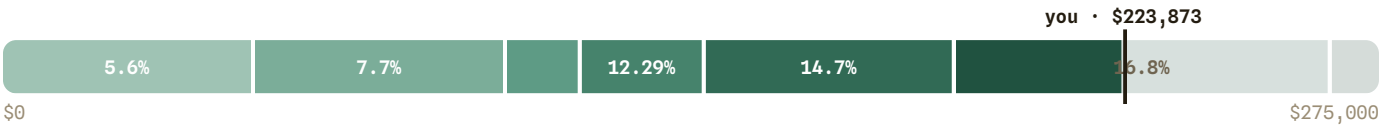

FEDERAL BRACKETS

$46,200 federal tax per year

BRITISH COLUMBIA BRACKETS

$23,280 provincial tax per year

Each band taxes only the income that falls inside it. The marker is where your taxable income reaches — everything to its left was taxed at the lower bands first, which is why your effective rate is well below your top bracket. Bars show tax before credits.

SCHEDULE A

What lands each payday

PAY FREQUENCY	GROSS	DEDUCTIONS	TAKE-HOME
Weekly	$4,326.92	$1,447.10	$2,879.82
Bi-weekly	$8,653.85	$2,894.21	$5,759.64
Semi-monthly	$9,375.00	$3,135.39	$6,239.61
Monthly	$18,750.00	$6,270.78	$12,479.22
Yearly	$225,000.00	$75,249.41	$149,750.59

EFFECTIVE TAX RATE

30.9%

The share of your whole income that goes to income tax — your true average.

TRUE MARGINAL RATE

46.1%

What your next $100 loses to tax, CPP and EI. On your next $1,000 raise you'd keep about $539 — a raise never lowers your take-home.

Employment income only, single filer resident in British Columbia on Dec 31, 2026. Basic credits only (no RRSP, dependant or tuition). Validated against TaxTips.ca and Wealthsimple, October 2026. An estimate, not tax advice.

Sources: CRA tax rates · CRA payroll deductions tables · Adjust these numbers: salaryandtax.ca/?income=225000&province=bc